"Sixth Grade Cell Cookies"

At the Middle School, in sixth grade science, the students have spent the past few weeks learning about cells. To wrap-up the unit, the students completed a fun (and yummy) activity of making cell cookies that were modeled after real cells. The kids had a great time decorating the cookies with different kinds of candy. Each type of candy that was placed on the cookie cell represented a different organelle found in a real cell. As each organelle candy was placed on the cookie, the class discussed what the function of each organelle is in a real cell. After the cell cookies were all decorated, the students were able to eat their cells. The students had a blast with this exciting activity!

Historical Society Open House

Did you miss the Tremont History Museum open house after the Holiday Home Tour? There was so much interest generated in our hometown museum that we will have another open house Sunday, January 8 from 2:00-4:00PM. The museum is usually closed in January.

Much more extensive than it appears from the outside, the museum is filled with local treasures. Please come and support our efforts to preserve Tremont history and to educate our community.
